STATE COURT, HON. R. B. CARPENTER, JUDGE, Parsiding .- In this court yesterday, among the civil business heard was the case of J. Evans Eddings vs. John Wright, the points of which of which the fire occurred. At the rear end of are, as we learn, that some time ago Mr. Eddings mortgaged a portion of his plantation on Edisto Island. The mortgage was foreclosed and the tract sold by order of Mr. Tupper, Master in Equity. Mr. Wright purchased it, but when he went to take possession a dispute arose as to the limits of the property purchased, and he was prosecuted to- trespass. The case came up yesterday, but after hearing the testimony, the judge continued the case until to-day, when the arguments will be heard. Whaley and Brown, counsel for plaintiffs;

Messrs. E. C. Prince, John E. Prince, and H. Wohlkin testified.

Mr. E. C. Prince testified: That on the night in question he put out his lamp and placed it on the minitopiece when he retired, about two 'colock; about two 'colock he was aroused by a scream from his daughter (Mr. Calder,) who, with her four children, slept in an adjoining room; he arose and rushed into the room; from the fibrate, but got burnt himself; two of the children were laying on the bed; he succeeded in rescuing the children were laying on the bed in a natural position; a small brass lamp which his daughter kept dimly burroing for use if the children needed anything during the night was burning on the mantelpiece; he noticed afterwards that his daughter seemed to be perfectly stapeded; when he rushed down stairs with the children he found the back door open; he let Abram Huger in at the front door; he stated (in answer to a question from the jury), that there was some property coming to the the children in case of the death of Mrs. Calder (mother of Mrs. Sarab F. Calder's husband), and that he had applied to a lawyer to be and his daughter were on the best of terms, as about out he found that the lamp under the bed was alarmed by his mother's screams of the feath of the fire, about half-past 8 o'.lock, he heard a noise up stairs as if some one was walking about; but after listening awhile at the one he two hours before had put out and pfaced upon his mantelpiece.

Mr. John E. Prince testified: That on the light of the fire, about half-past 8 o'.lock, he heard a noise up stairs as if some one was walking about; but after listening awhile at the most half-past 8 o'.lock, he heard a noise up stairs as if some one was walking about; but after listening awhile at the property that he was alarmed by his mother's screams of the family, but knew nothing of the origin of the fire was and rushed to her room; that he helped to extract the first of the first of the f Memminger and Phillips for defendant.

were bathing, and the colored boy came on the wharf and said he was coming in. The boys told him he had better not do so as the water was over his head. The colored boy said he was coming in anyhow, and stripped and stood on the edge of the wharf. A white boy then shoved bim off, and after a short struggle he sunk, despite the efforts of all of the boys, and especially of the one who pushed him overboard, to rescue him. The boy who volunteered the information was taken in charge by Officer Nipson, and though he asserted he knew the offender and all the witnesses necessary to prove the charge, he found none of them after a diligent search, nor was he able to tell the names of any one of them. Other parties stated that the drowning was purely accidental. The inquest to-day will elicit the facts.
